SAFETY INFORMATION

About Photosensitive Seizures

A very small percentage of people may experience a seizure when exposed to certain visual images, including flashing lights or patterns that may appear in video games. Even people who have no history of seizures or epilepsy may have an undiagnosed condition that can cause these "photosensitive epileptic seizures" while watching video games.

These seizures may have a variety of symptoms, including lightheadedness, altered vision, eye or face twitching, jerking or shaking of arms or legs, disorientation, confusion, or momentary loss of awareness. Seizures may also cause loss of consciousness or convulsions that can lead to injury from falling down or striking nearby objects.

Immediately stop playing and consult a doctor if you experience any of these symptoms. Parents should watch for or ask their children about the above symptoms—children and teenagers are more likely than adults to experience these seizures.

The risk of photosensitive epileptic seizures may be reduced by sitting farther from the television screen, using a smaller television screen, playing in a well-lit room, and not playing when you are drowsy or fatigued.

If you or any of your relatives have a history of seizures or epilepsy, consult a doctor before playing.

Other Important Health and Safety Information The Xbox Instruction Manual contains important health and safety information that you should read and understand before using this software.

Avoid Damage to Your Television

Do not use with certain televisions. Some televisions, especially front- or rear-projection types, can be damaged if any video games, including Xbox games, are played on them. Static images presented during the normal course of gameplay may "burn in" to the screen, causing a permanent shadow of the static image to appear at all times, even when video games are not being played. Similar damage may occur from static images created when placing a video game on hold or pause. Consult your television owner's manual to determine if video games can be played safely on your set. If you are unable to find this information in the owner's manual, contact your television dealer or the manufacturer to determine if video games can be played safely on your set.

Unauthorized copying, reverse engineering, transmission, public performance, rental, pay for play, or circumvention of copy protection is strictly prohibited.

This game is presented in Dolby Digital. Connect your Xbox to a sound system with Dolby Digital technology using a digital optical cable with an Xbox Advanced A/V Pack or Xbox High Definition A/V Pack. Select "Dolby Digital" in the Dashboard menu of the Xbox to experience the excitement of surround sound.

POKER OVERVIEW

Blinds

At the start of each hand two "Blind" bets are put up or "posted." The player immediately to the left of the dealer posts the small blind, which is equal to half the minimum bet. The Player to the left of the small blind posts the big blind, which is equivalent to the minimum bet for the table. No other players put in money at the start of the hand. As the dealer rotates around the table so do the blinds. Blinds are posted at the beginning to assure that at least one player on the table has an investment in each hand.

Opening Bet

After each player is dealt two cards face down, players can look at their cards and make bets or "check" based upon the strength of their hand—or you can just bluff! Checking is essentially passing on your opportunity to bet, but staying in the hand. You can only check if no one raised before you in the current betting round. Betting begins at the person to the left of the big blind and goes around till all players have had a chance to bet, raise or check.

The Flop

After the first betting round is complete, the dealer puts three cards face up in the middle of the table. These cards are called the "Flop" and are community cards to be used by all players. Another betting round begins with the player to the left of the dealer.

The Turn

Once betting has ended for the Flop, a fourth card is placed face up in the middle of the table, next to the Flop. This is called the "Turn". Betting then resumes from the player to the left of the dealer.

The River

Following the betting from the Turn, a fifth and final card is placed in the center of the table; this is called the "River". One final round of betting begins.

The Showdown

To determine the winner, each player may use any combination of the community cards on the "board" (table) with their two cards to make the best possible poker hand. In some cases the best poker hand may be the five cards on the board. In this scenario, the players will split the pot.

Texas Hold 'Em

Easy to learn, hard to master, Texas Hold 'Em is the classic version of Hold 'Em poker. In No Limit Texas Hold 'Em you can bet as much as you like, up to your entire stack. Each player is dealt two cards and five community cards are turned up on the board. Whoever makes the best poker hand wins. That is, unless you are bluffing!

1. Post Small and Big Blinds.
2. Deal two cards to each player, face down.
3. Begin Betting.
4. Deal the three card Flop.
5. Deal one card on the Turn.
6. Deal one card on the River.
7. Use any combination of your cards and community cards to make the best poker hand.

Super Hold 'Em

Just like Texas Hold 'Em but you receive one extra hole card.

Five Card Draw

Five Card Draw is considered the most classic of poker games dating all the way back to the Wild West. There are no community cards. Each player is dealt a hand of five cards face down. You may discard up to three cards or four if your remaining card is an ace. The deal then draws replacement cards for you. The best hand wins.

1. Ante up.
2. Deal five cards face down.
3. Begin Betting.
4. Discard up to three cards (four with an ace.)
5. Dealer Draws to replace any discarded cards.
6. Begin the final round of betting.
7. The best hand takes the pot.

Seven-Card Stud

Seven Card Stud is considered the poker player's poker game. In this game, you are given two cards face down and one face up, which everyone can see. Next, you are dealt additional cards called "streets" until you have seven cards in your hand. Then, use your cards to make the best possible poker hand.

1. Ante up.
2. Deal two hole cards face down and one card face up.
3. Lowest card face up brings in the bet.
4. Deal one card "4th Street" face up to each player.
5. Resume betting with the highest card showing.
6. Deal one card called "5th Street" face down.
7. Resume Betting with a higher minimum bet.
8. Deal one card, "6th Street" face up to each player.
9. Deal one card face down to each player, known as the "River".
10. Use any combination of cards to make the best five-card hand.

Limit Texas Hold 'Em

This game is the same as No Limit Texas Hold 'Em except that each player is only allowed to make a bet in a set amount.

Omaha

The game of Omaha is slightly more forgiving than Texas Hold 'Em. Each player is dealt four cards instead of two; each player must use two of the four "pocket" cards to make the best possible poker hand. Betting is handled the same as in Texas Hold 'Em.

1. Post Small and Big Blinds.
2. Deal four cards to each player, face down.
3. Begin betting.
4. Deal the three card Flop.
5. Deal one card on the Turn.
6. Deal one card on the River.
7. Use any combination of two pocket cards and the community cards to make the best poker hand.

Pineapple, Crazy Pineapple and Tahoe

These games are all variations of Texas Hold 'Em; however, each player is dealt three cards instead of two. In Pineapple, you immediately discard one of your three cards. In Crazy Pineapple, each player is dealt three cards at the beginning of a hand. One of those cards is discarded after the second round of betting. In Tahoe, the player keeps all three cards but may not use all three to make the best poker hand.

Shanghai

Shanghai Poker is similar to Tahoe poker with the exception that the flop and the turn consist of two cards each. You are first dealt three hole cards, which is followed by the first round of betting. Next the Flop is dealt (two community cards) followed by the second round of betting. Then, two additional community cards are dealt (the Turn) followed by a third round of betting. Finally, the fifth and final community card is dealt and you may use zero, one or two of your hole cards to make the best poker hand in combination with the community cards.

Billabong Poker

In Billabong poker, each player is dealt three cards down and one card up. Use three or four of your hole cards along with the standard five community cards to make the best poker hand.

Hi/Lo rules

Another twist that some casinos will put on the poker game is Hi/Lo rules. While in play, each player can use exactly two of their hole cards and three community cards to make a hand with each card having a denomination below eight (ace counting as one.) If a player has such a hand, they will qualify to split the pot with the high hand winner. The player with the lowest cards in their low hand will win split the pot with the high hand winner. In the event there is a low tie, the low hand pot will be split.
